

Lliqlla (Shoulder Cloth)

Date
Late 20 C.

Artist/Maker
Unknown, Quechua

Medium
Wool

Description
Lliklla (llicla), also called a manta in Spanish, that serves as a warm shoulder cloth but may also serve as a carrier for a baby or goods. Two panels stitched together decoratively. Primarily brown-black natural wool warp with groups of narrow stripes in red, maroon, mustard, green, pink, white, and blue. Wider green stripes at the selvedge edge where the panels are joined. Decorative tubing on all four edges.

Dimensions
32 3/4" L x 26" W

Object number
NLA1994.07.HOW